Transfer of information outside the EEA

All customers sending items through the post containing goods to destinations beyond the UK (including Europe) are required to provide accurate customs documentation, either digitally or on paper. This information will be shared with other postal/forwarding companies handling the items.

| Category of data | Type of Data |
|-----------------------------------|---|
| Sender's - Contact information | name, full address including postcode, telephone number and email address |
| Recipient's - Contact information | name and full address including postcode |

This information is mandatory for all international (outside of the UK) mail (letters and parcel) items, unless the content is 'documents only'. This data is collected from you for the tracking label and customs documentation which may be transferred to, and stored at, a destination outside the European Economic Area ("EEA"). It may also be processed by staff operating outside the EEA who work for one of postal/forwarding companies delivering the mail items.

MailChimp used for product updates and notifications is headquartered in and has offices in the United States and their servers are also located in the United States. This means data they process may be transferred to, stored, or processed in the United States.
