Strike Frequently Asked Questions

When will the planned strike take place?

The Communication Workers Union (CWU) are planning to strike for 48 hours from 05.30am on Thursday 13th December and Friday 14th December 2018.

What will happen to mail deliveries during the strike?

IOMPO will prioritise premium services (Special Delivery and Parcelforce 24), Yodel parcel deliveries and business services for commercial clients. Depending on how many people attend for work on the strike days, IOMPO will try to deliver and collect as much other mail as possible.

Customers are advised that an Island-wide doorstep delivery of standard post will not be possible.

As there will be no delivery of standard post to residential addresses, will people be able to collect their mail instead?

Residential customers will not be able to collect their mail. Residential customers can expect to begin to receive their mail from Saturday 15th December 2018.

Will collections still take place?

Business collections will still take place and we will endeavour to collect from post boxes. For urgent items, we recommend you post your items at your local post office.

Many thanks to all customers who have posted their mail in advance of the strike to avoid disappointment.

Will the time guarantee for Special Delivery and Parcelforce items remain in place?

Special Delivery and Parcelforce next-day guaranteed items will be delivered on strike days although may be subject to a small time delay. Meanwhile, the despatch of Special Delivery and Parcelforce items on those evenings will be as normal and the time guarantee for both services will remain in place.
